

Have Crystal Clear Intention

Question: I moved home for health reasons and had to charge up credit cards for meds. My mother has requested I move out, but I can't afford to do so with my credit card bills. Help!

Our friend needs to fasten her seat belt. What an exciting ride is available to her. There are two Laws clearly operative here. Let's explore them.

According to the language of a dear colleague, Rev. Gregory Toole, there is the "Law of Need Equals Fulfillment." He describes a need as our readiness to step into a greater place. You can feel how ready this reader is. It is her need that spurs her to reach out, get creative, align with and attract her good. Without a strong need, the motivation for that kind of energy and attention would not be there. Where is she called to look deeper? What practices can she put in place that would serve her?

By staying open to the "coincidences" in her life, she may attract assistance from family, support from friends, an increase in income or unexpected good from unknown sources.

The other exciting Law is described as the "Law of HAVE Consciousness." What does she already have that is enriching her life, answering this temporary dilemma and guiding her immediate decisions? We would guess the richness of family life, great health, good solid friends, spiritual growth, decent-paying employment and the wisdom to reach out to others for guidance and direction.

A person with a "have" consciousness is ever ready to see where good can come from, for Spirit is her source and nothing else. Our friend's Source is not her mom, a job, an inheritance, generosity of her friends, etc. These may be channels through which Spirit works, but they are not her Source.

Spirit is unlimited, creative and loves our friend intensely. The more open she is to Spirit's generosity, the more she experiences that flow. Being open often begins with the "have" consciousness coupled with an attitude of appreciation. As we often say in Religious Science, our job is to be crystal clear on what it is we want. It is Spirit's job to determine how it happens. ☸
